Communications 312 Oral Presentation (Prerequisites: ENGL 102 and one History and Humanities GER 200 level course with a grade of C or higher): Instruction and practice in effective oral presentations. Students deliver a wide range of presentations adapted to the needs of a variety of audiences. Topics include voice and diction, presentation skills, the effective use of visual aids, reporting technical material and audience analysis. This course satisfies the three credit 300 GER in History and Humanities.

Adjunct Professor Nigora Raufova

Office Hours: Tuesday 5:30-6:30

Course Goals:

What is the purpose of communication? To share information. This course is about perfecting those skills. This is key to all professions. It is important that you develop these skills prior to starting your professional life.

- Speak confidently and engage an audience
- Communicate purposefully
- Deliver thoughtful impromptu speeches
- Use adequate volume
- Use effective body language
- Time presentations exactly
- Receive and implement feedback
- Integrate visuals and videos
- Communicate in small and large groups
- Listen actively
- Provide constructive feedback to colleagues

“Public speaking is a process of designing and delivering a message to the audience (Wrench et al., 2012). To be a good public speaker, planning and organizing the topic or material are needed. There are three types of public speaking based on the intended purpose: informative, persuasive, and entertaining (Wrench et al., 2012). The most common types of public speaking are informative. The purpose of informative speech is to share knowledge with others. It happens in the classroom; the teachers share their knowledge with the students. Persuasive speaking is how the speakers try to persuade others. The speaker must convince, motivate, and invite the audience to change or move to be better. Then entertaining speaking involves organizing some events such as presenting and accepting awards, introduction to wedding toasts, delivering eulogies at funerals, and memorial services to after-dinner speeches.” (Paradewari 2017). You will be doing all 3 in this class.

Textbook: not required

Class Requirements:

- Attendance: is required and is graded: 0-1 absences = 20 (highest score); 2 absences = 17; 3 absences = 15; 4 absences = 13; 5 absences = 11; 6 absences = 9; 7 absences = 7; 8 or more = 0. If you are absent due to illness or other problems, email me explaining the situation. Absences may be excused if documentation is sent to the Dean of Students. The Dean of Students make the determination of whether extenuating circumstances exist and notify me. I do not accept nor request medical documentation. Absences are excused at my discretion. Class begins promptly at 6:00 p.m. and important announcements are made then. Lateness will be penalized as late comers interrupt the lecture and distract others.
- Preparedness: every time you are called on to give a speech and you are not ready, points will be deducted from your score.
- If I see your cellphone in use or on your desk during instructional time, I will deduct points from your grade. You may step out if you are expecting a call. It is vital that you are fully present for this class. If you have an extenuating circumstance, please speak to me.

Exams: None

Assignments and Grading:

All grading will be done numerically. For instance, if an assignment is worth 10%, it will receive a grade from 1 to 10. Some grades receive full credit simply for completion. Grades will be added at the end of the semester for the final grade. No curves are given. Specific schedules for each assignment will be developed and discussed in class during the semester. If a scheduled presentation is missed, a makeup date will be assigned as soon as possible. Late assignments without prior approval will result in partial loss of credit. Students must notify me in writing of any conflicts between course requirements and religious observances, ideally by the end of the second week of classes and no later than two weeks before the anticipated absence.

Statement on Academic Integrity

Academic Integrity is the cornerstone of higher education and is central to the ideals of this course and the university. Cheating is strictly prohibited and devalues the degree that you are working on. As a member of the NJIT community, it is your responsibility to protect your educational investment by knowing and following the academic code of integrity policy that is found at:

<http://www5.njit.edu/policies/sites/policies/files/academic-integrity-code.pdf>

Please note that it is my professional obligation and responsibility to report any academic misconduct to the Dean of Students Office. Any student found in violation of the code by cheating, plagiarizing or using any online software inappropriately will result in disciplinary action. This may include a failing grade of F, and/or suspension or dismissal from the university. If you have any questions about the code of Academic Integrity, please contact the Dean of Students Office at dos@njit.edu

Artificial Intelligence: Note that this course prioritizes human interaction and oral delivery. As such, it is not anticipated that students will need to use artificial intelligence (AI). Student use of AI is permitted in this course for certain assignments and activities. If and when students use AI in this course, the AI must be cited as is shown within the NJIT Library AI citation page for AI. If you have questions or concerns about AI technology use in this class, please contact me before submitting assignments.

Writing Center: <https://www.njit.edu/writingcenter/schedule-appointment>

If you would like additional practice, the Writing Center offers support in preparing classroom presentations.

Accommodations:

At the university level, if you have a disability, it is your responsibility to self-disclose and to request accommodations. You can initiate the process by contacting the Office of Accessibility Resources and Services (OARS) office, who can advise you as to what forms and documentation you will need to submit. Their email is: OARS@NJIT.EDU. In order for accommodations to be provided in a timely manner, documentation should be submitted in the current semester that accommodations are requested. The documentation establishing eligibility for accommodations will be reviewed and you will be notified if the documentation is acceptable and complete, or if further information is required. Once accommodations are approved, students will meet with the Office of Accessibility Resources and Services regarding the next steps. Students are not expected to share their disability information, including diagnosis or symptoms, with anyone outside of OARS Office. It is always the student's choice to decide if/when they disclose, and it is never required. Accommodation letters for instructors do not list specific diagnoses. Instead, the letters explain that the student has provided appropriate documentation of a disability and lists the approved academic accommodations for that student. Do not provide me with documentation. OARS will email me. Please discuss a plan of action with me on the first day.
