I. Course description and learning outcomes

Organizational behavior (OB) is about how individuals and groups act within organizations and how these actions impact organizational performance. The main objective is to enhance organizational effectiveness. Topics covered include individual characteristics, motivation, reactions to the work experience, groups and team dynamics, organizational structure, organizational culture, organizational power and politics, leadership and organizational change. Throughout, where relevant, examples relate to context, trends and evolving practice in business.

Learning outcomes:

The course covers the fundamentals of how people behave in organizations using lectures, cases, and student projects to elucidate important points. Outcomes of the course are:

- a. To define organizational behavior (OB) and why it is important to managers.
- b. To analyze structures of large organizations and their impact on power and to discuss the role of national culture on organizational design and power relations.
- c. To identify how personalities and attitudes affect OB.

- d. To analyze how perception, attribution and communication affect how to manage a diverse workforce and business patterns in a globalized world.
- e. To analyze some theories of motivation and the impact of globalization for understanding motivation and key motivation theories.
- f. To analyze the role of informal groups and leadership on behavior and decision making in different national cultures.
- g. To explore the impact of change on workplace behavior in a globalized environment.

Expected learning outcomes

In addition to content specific course objectives, the course intends to help students develop analytical, communication, interpersonal and technology skills, namely;

Learning outcome 6.1 Understanding the global context in which business is conducted and its impact on organizational behavior.

V. Course structure

This course offers work in full class and group settings. In some sessions we will break into small groups rather than work as a single unit so that class members can complete group exercises. Working in groups is an important part of the HRM 301 experience.

V. Course Deliverables:

A. Power Essay

Look at the section on "Bases of Power" in the textbook. Using your own job experience or the experience of someone you know discuss how a manager used three bases of power to reach company goals using the framework supplied by the textbook. Write a three-to-five page essay that relates your case study to the theoretical framework. I will grade the essay for content, organization, language, and technical proficiency (e.g., spelling, grammar). Grading will follow the "Fatal Error Writing Policy" which I will distribute with the syllabus. Please read the grading policy carefully and let me know if you have any questions about how it works.

B. Role Play Assignment

The assignment gives you the opportunity to work in a goal-directed group, motivate an audience to help you reach goals and reflect on your actions in relation to OB theories.

This is a group assignment. Each group prepares a simulation that requires the class to participate in one of the following:

- A. Brainstorming or
- B. Nominal group technique.

The performing group presents to the class an organizational setting, a situation calling for use of the technique and roles for the group members and the class. During the exercise, group members explain the role play setting. Group members then lead the class through the exercise which should take approximately one hour. The core of the exercise is getting class members to generate alternate solutions to a problem that you explain to them. Each group member must take part in leading the class through the exercise. The technique must be relevant to the chosen situation. The group will decide which technologies they want to use in the role play.

Each group must submit to the instructor a paper about three to seven pages using OB concepts to explain one way that the group interacted in preparing the role play, e.g., how leadership, informal group culture, etc., affected development of the role play. The paper should relate textbook and class concepts to the specific group dynamics. All students must cite sources when they are used. A bibliography at the end of the paper is not sufficient! Members of a single group may receive different grades for the exercise because of different performance during the role play or different contribution to papers. I will form groups and notify you of your placement. You will have to meet electronically with your group members to prepare the role play and other group assignments. Papers must have professional-level grammar and presentation. On the last sheet of the paper please list each team member's contributions to the document.

IV. Course Deliverables: Assessment

Power essay Feb. 3 10% Submitted electronically as a Word document sent to my email by 11:20 am.

First test February 10 20%
Second test April 14 20%

Role play 20% for both oral and written grades combined.

Oral Scattered throughout term
Written May 1, 2025

Oral grade also includes credit for participation in role plays of other groups and participation in answering questions I will raise in class. Some class periods may include students solving case problems and such participation will count for the grade. For a good grade you must participate in all role plays and take roles assigned to you by the presenting group.

Final exam 30%

Make up policy: Students can only make up missed exams or paper submissions because of serious illness or a funeral for a family member. Please submit the required documentation to the dean of students.

Extra credit assignment

Group assignment:

- A. DUE as a group project delivered electronically on April 7 by 11:20am. Assume you manage a group of workers who are experts in recruiting technical workers for other companies. When should you ask the workers' advice on how to handle workplace issues? If you ask their advice and then decide not to follow their recommendation, how should you communicate that information to them? The assignment is worth zero to five points extra on the second exam.

V. Course Policies

Additional information:

This class will uphold the NJIT Honor Code and violations will be brought to the attention of the Dean of Students.

Academic integrity is the cornerstone of higher education and is central to the ideals of this course. Cheating is strictly prohibited and devalues the degree that you are working on. As a member of the NJIT community it is your responsibility to protect your educational investment by knowing and following the NJIT academic code of integrity.

Students will be consulted and must agree to substantive deviations from syllabus content.

Students who miss an exam or other assignment because of illness or family emergencies must submit validation to the Dean of Students office in order to take a make-up exercise.

Grading policies are that to get an "A" grade you need to have a weighted average of 90 or greater. B+ requires 85-89, B requires 80 to 84, C+ requires 75 to 79, C requires 70 to 74, and a D requires 60-69. A lower weighted average than 60 equals an "F" grade.

Educational access is the provision of classroom accommodations, auxiliary aids and services to ensure equal educational opportunity for all students regardless of their disability. If you need accommodation due to a disability, please contact Scott Janz, Associate Director Office of accessibility Resources (OARS) and Services, Kupfrian 201 to discuss your specific need. A letter of Access Eligibility from OARS authorizing your accommodation will be required. Accommodation needs to be requested in advance and will not be granted retroactively.

This course expects students to work without AI assistance on all the essays. Students can use AI assistance to generate role play scenarios.
